

457(b) Plan Elective Deferral Limits for 2022

457(b) Plan Elective Deferral Limits for 2022
Participants under age 50 throughout calendar year	Participants who turn(ed) 50 during 2022 or earlier
$20,500	$27,000
What counts toward the elective limit?
Contributions to the Commonwealth of Virginia 457 Deferred Compensation Plan (DCP) administered by the Virginia Retirement System (VRS) Voluntary contributions to the Hybrid 457 component of the Virginia Retirement System Hybrid Retirement Plan (VRS Hybrid)	Contributions to the VCU Health System 457(b) plan	Elective deferrals to any other 457(b) plan you participate(d) in during 2022

Tips:

- 403(b) and 457(b) elective deferral limits are separate
- The Virginia Retirement System will monitor contributions to its DCP and Hybrid plans to prevent participants from exceeding the deferral limit.
- If you participate(d) in any other 457(b) plan(s) during 2022, it is your responsibility to make sure that your total 457(b) deferrals do not exceed the calendar year limit.
- To maximize opportunities and ease, consider participating in 457(b) savings through one employer rather than through multiple separate employers. VCU, VCU Health System, and MCV Physicians are separate employers.
- 457(b) plans may offer a special Catch Up within 3 years of normal retirement age to allow participants to defer additional amounts. If you are within 3 years of normal retirement age, consult with your HR office if you wish to explore this option.
