Performance management

A new performance management process focuses on cascading goals, core competency demonstration, and measurable outcomes. The program aligns goal setting, performance review, and career development to school/unit and university priorities using our Talent@VCU software. There are six performance ratings in the new process. For Classified employees, the six performance review ratings will be converted to the three-rating scale used by the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management for state reporting purposes.

Career development

Collaborative career planning engages employees and managers in a structured process to formulate and realize career development goals. New career development tools, such as the Learning Management System in Talent@VCU, provide easy access to university-wide learning opportunities, and track training participation as well as external learning experiences.

Career communities

New communities that bring together employees in the same or similar job families throughout the university, and are open to all others seeking to learn about or explore movement to another job family.

Mentoring

Creation of new formal and informal mentoring programs.

Leadership development

Defined leadership competencies used for hiring, performance management, and development for employees who manage others.

Compensation

Pay ranges +Classified*University and Academic Professional

Pay bands for all Classified roles are determined by the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) and applied uniformly to state agencies regardless of industry. VCU determines pay ranges for individual jobs from within the applicable state pay bands.

VCU operates its own compensation plan based on market-based salary ranges matched to benchmark jobs and career paths that provide opportunities for growth and development. No salary increases are provided due to conversion.

Job structure +

Classified

The Classified job structure is organized by DHRM and consists of seven Occupational Families. These Occupational Families are divided into Career Groups. Individual jobs are assigned to a Career Group and a specific pay band. The most recent comprehensive update of the DHRM job structure took place in 2000.

University and Academic Professional

The university job structure consists of 21 job families that incorporate university-established jobs spanning from operational, technical and administrative support jobs through several levels of professional jobs, to management and executive leadership. All jobs are part of a career path for individual contributors as subject matter experts, distinct from career paths for supervisors/managers.

Annual increases +

Classified

Across-the-board salary increases are approved by the General Assembly as part of the state budget process, and are subject to state funding. Implementation of the increases is subject to eligibility criteria and procedures published by the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM). DHRM typically limits eligibility for state increases to employees with satisfactory or better performance ratings, and may authorize greater increases for specific jobs. Employees at the top of the band may receive lump sum payments instead of increases. Cost of living increases are not provided.

University and Academic Professional

The university compensation plan does not include across-the-board annual increases or cost of living increases. Salary increases are typically based on merit and career advancement. The Board of Visitors (BOV) has authority to implement broad salary increases to support university strategy. Employees with salaries at the top of the market range may continue to receive salary increases either in base salary or in a lump sum payment.

Merit-based increases +

Classified

There are no provisions for merit-based salary increases. Annual increase percentages are generally uniform for employees with performance ratings of "Contributor" or above.

University and Academic Professional

Contingent upon funding, an annual merit process determines salary increases based on the formal performance review process. Performance ratings serve as the basis for merit increases with higher performing employees receiving larger increases.

Pay adjustments for career advancements +

Classified

University and Academic Professional

In-band adjustments of up to 10% (cumulative) in a fiscal year are allowed based on application of new knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) obtained through education, certification, new licensure, or related forms of development. Exceptions above 10% must be reviewed and authorized by the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM). All other in-band adjustments for any other reason (e.g retention, internal alignment) fall under the same 10% fiscal year limit. The availability of in-band adjustments is dependent upon available funding in a school or unit.

Career advancement increases are tied to achieving milestones in an employee's career development plan. Salary increases typically range from 3% to 5%, with no annual dollar or percentage limit. The availability of career advancement increases is dependent upon available funding in a school or unit.

Promotions

Classified

Promotions occur through the competitive recruitment and selection process. A classified employee selected through the competitive process for a role in a higher pay band may receive a base pay increase negotiable from the minimum of the higher pay band up to 15% above the employee's current salary. In cases where the hiring range minimum exceeds a 15% increase over current salary, the minimum of the hiring range may be offered.

University and Academic Professional

Promotions may occur through the recruitment and selection process or through career advancement as part of the performance management process. Salary increases for competitive promotions are determined based on an analysis of pay factors including market-based salary range experience, and internal equity. Salary increases for non-competitive career advancement promotions are typically 3% to 5%. Managers may consult with VCU HR to justify larger salary increases when appropriate.

Rewards and recognition/non-base pay

Classified

The Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) policy allows for up to $2,000 per fiscal year and up to five days of paid leave per leave year for individual employee recognition. Non-base pay bonuses of up to 10% per fiscal year are permitted in lieu of, and for the same reasons as, in-band adjustments. A retention bonus one time per fiscal year of up to $10,000 is permitted for retention of an exceptional employee deemed to be mission critical, subject to availability of funds in a school or unit.

Other bonuses and lump sum payments, such as formal award programs and employee suggestion programs, are not subject to the maximum.

University and Academic Professional

Non-base pay incentives of up to $5,000 per fiscal year or 10% of base pay (whichever is greater) and up to five days of paid leave per leave year may be awarded to an individual employee. Other bonuses and lump sum payments, such as formal award programs and employee suggestion programs, are not subject to the maximum.

Competitive starting pay

+

Classified

University and Academic Professional

Classified pay practices of the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) permit starting pay negotiable from the minimum of the state pay band up to 15% above the candidate's current salary. Exceptions to the 15% limit must be approved by the agency head. Starting salary may not exceed the maximum of the applicable state pay band.

Starting pay is determined based on the market-based salary range for the position, the candidate's qualifications and experience, internal equity within the unit, financial resources available in a school or unit, current staffing pattern, and/or staffing goals.

Review of salary ranges +

Classified

State pay band minimums and maximums are updated periodically through legislation approved by the General Assembly and applied uniformly to state agencies regardless of industry.

University and Academic Professional

VCU HR conducts a three-year review cycle with analysis of one-third of the job structure occurring each year. Based on review findings, salary ranges may be updated, new job titles may be added, and unutilized job titles may be removed. Salary ranges may also be adjusted outside the formal review schedule as needed.

Paid leave can be used only after it is accrued or credited to an employee's leave bank.

- Annual Leave is accrued based on years of state service and full-time equivalency. Accrual rates are determined by the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM). This leave can be used for any reason.
- Sick Leave is accrued based on full-time equivalency. Full-time employees accrue five hours each pay period. Accruals are prorated for employees who work less than full-time. A portion can be used for absences due to a family member's routine illness, or for a family member's serious health condition covered by the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA).

University and Academic Professional

Employees accrue one bank of university leave that can be used for any reason. Accrual is based on years of state service and full-time equivalency. Short-term disability

+

Classified

University and Academic Professional

No short-term disability coverage is provided.

Employees must use their own accrued paid leave banks to continue income during periods of disability. After exhausting paid leave banks, an employee may apply to receive donated paid leave from the leave sharing program.

Employees continuously covered by the traditional sick leave program since prior to July 1, 1999 are eligible to apply for VRS Disability Retirement in the event of permanent disability.

Income replacement at 100% of pre-disability salary during approved periods of non-work related short-term disability after a seven calendar day waiting period. Maximum benefit period is 125 work days.

Employees who remain active members of the Virginia Retirement System (VRS) are enrolled in the Virginia Sickness and Disability Program (VSDP) upon conversion to the University and Academic Professionals group. VRS Disability Retirement is not available.

Non-work related disabilities are covered as soon as employment begins, however the VSDP does not cover non-work related disabilities during the first year of VSDP participation.

When an employee becomes eligible for Virginia Sickness and Disability Program (VSDP) short-term disability benefits, the VSDP provides 60%, 80%, or 100% income replacement based on program provisions. Leave granted by VCU supplements any partial income replacement provided by VSDP to bring the employee to 100% income replacement. Prior to eligibility for VSDP short-term disability benefits, employees must use their own banked traditional sick leave for periods of short-term disability. Upon exhaustion of the traditional sick leave bank, VCU's own short-term disability program provides 100% income replacement for approved periods of non-work related short-term disability.

For eligible employees who elect the VCU Optional Retirement Plan (ORP), VCU provides income replacement for 100% of pre-disability salary through the university's own disability plan, for up to 125 working days of approved non-work related disability after a seven calendar day waiting period. ORP participants are not eligible for the VSDP.

Long-term disability

Classified

University and Academic Professional

Long-term disability coverage is not provided. Employees must use their own paid leave accruals to continue income during periods of disability unless they have purchased voluntary long-term disability coverage via payroll deduction. After exhausting paid leave banks, an employee may apply to receive donated paid leave from the leave sharing program.

Employees continuously covered by the traditional sick leave program since prior to July 1, 1999 are eligible to apply for VRS Disability Retirement in the event of permanent disability.

VRS Disability Retirement is not available.

Non-work related disabilities that began prior to eligibility for VSDP benefits are not covered. Employees may purchase voluntary long-term disability coverage through VCU via payroll deduction prior to becoming eligible for VSDP benefits. Employees with unused, banked traditional sick leave may use this banked leave during periods of long-term disability.

For eligible employees who elect the VCU Optional Retirement Plan (ORP), VCU provides income replacement coverage for 60% of pre-disability salary up to a maximum of $4,000 per month during periods of approved disability, after a 180 calendar day waiting period. During periods of approved disability, the program also contributes to the ORP at the same employer contribution rate that was in force when the employee was actively at work. ORP participants are not eligible for the VSDP.

Up to 80 hours of paid leave may be provided, subject to availability of leave sharing donations.

- Employees who use 40 hours (five days) of their own paid leave are then eligible for 40 hours (five days) from the leave sharing pool.
- Employees may be eligible for an additional 40 hours (five days) from the leave sharing pool if they use an additional 40 hours (five days) from their own paid leave.

Informal dispute resolution may include facilitated discussions, access to an ombudsperson, and mediation. A grievance may be filed under the State Employee Grievance Procedure and, if qualified, the grievance proceeds to a hearing conducted by a Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) hearing officer. No panel hearing is available. Equal Employment Opportunity and dispute resolution issues filed with DHRM are reviewed and decided concurrently by DHRM.

Informal dispute resolution is required prior to formal dispute resolution, and may include one-on-one meetings, facilitated discussions, access to an ombudsperson, and mediation. A VCU grievance may be filed for certain performance and behavior issues; not all grievances will proceed to a hearing. Formal dispute resolution includes a peer panel hearing held by VCU employees and a chairperson. Equal Employment Opportunity concerns are addressed separately through the VCU Office of Equity and Access.

Formerly Classified employees at VCU who were hired from job postings prior to July 1, 2016, and who converted from Classified to the University and Academic Professionals employee group with no break in VCU service, may access either the Classified dispute resolution process or the University and Academic Professionals dispute resolution process but may not access both processes for the same dispute.

Employee conduct

+

Classified

University and Academic Professional

Governed by Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) policy 1.60 "Standards of Conduct."

Counseling Memorandum may be issued prior to proceeding with Written Notice.

Group I Written Notice: Three active written Group I Written Notices can lead to suspension. A fourth active Group 1 Written Notice can result in termination of employment. In lieu of termination, an employee may be suspended without pay for up to 30 workdays and/or demoted or transferred with disciplinary salary action.

Group II Written Notice: A second active Group II Written Notice, or a Group II Written Notice in addition to three active Group I Written Notices, normally results in termination of employment. In lieu of termination, an employee may be suspended without pay for up to 30 workdays and/or demoted or transferred with disciplinary salary action.

Group III Written Notice: A Group III Written Notice normally results in termination of employment. If employment is not terminated upon issuance of a Group III Written Notice, any subsequent Written Notice during the active life of the Group III Written Notice may result in termination of employment.

Imposed probation is not permitted.

A process of "progressive discipline" is intended to foster productive working relationships and to resolve conduct issues at the earliest and least confrontational stage, whenever possible. While there may be exceptions to the use of the progressive disciplinary process dictated by the seriousness of the conduct in question, use of the process is preferred for all but the most serious disciplinary issues.

The steps in the progressive disciplinary process are verbal warning, written warning, imposed probation, suspension, and dismissal. Verbal Warnings may be issued prior to proceeding with Written Warnings. Verbal Warnings are documented.

Written Warnings document the severity of conduct. An employee who receives three Written Warnings during an 18-month period may be dismissed. Demotion may occur after prior Written Warning of performance deficiency following which the employee failed to meet essential job requirements. Suspension may occur after a Written Warning or be imposed without notice when behavioral, performance, or misconduct issues pose an immediate risk.

Dismissal may occur after three Written Warnings in an 18-month period, or when an employee has been convicted of a felony, committed an act of serious misconduct, or demonstrated a pattern of unsatisfactory job performance that has not been corrected after Written Notice and an opportunity to correct performance deficiencies through the progressive discipline process.

Imposed probation is typically issued after a Written Warning.

Workforce reduction

+

Classified

University and Academic Professional

Layoffs may occur under Virginia Department of Human Resource Management (DHRM) Policy 1.30 "Layoff." Layoff sequence is determined by years of continuous Classified state service. At least two weeks' advance notice of layoff must be provided. After notifying affected employee(s), the employer may request and approve substitute employees for voluntary layoff under 2009 Policy Exception. Employees subject to layoff are eligible for placement, preferential hiring, and/or severance benefits under the Workforce Transition Act (WTA) unless in restricted positions excluded by law or DHRM policy.

WTA severance benefits include 4-36 weeks of cash severance based on length of service, and up to twelve months of continued employee health coverage and life insurance under the same provisions as active employees. WTA severance benefits cease upon re-employment with any state agency. Eligible employees who retire immediately may request that the value of WTA severance benefits be converted to enhanced retirement under the Virginia Retirement System instead of being used for the cash severance, health coverage, and life insurance.

Temporary Workforce Reductions (working or non-working) may occur under DHRM Policy 1.65 "Temporary Workforce Reduction" for up to 690 hours in a 365-day period. At the conclusion of the Temporary Workforce Reduction, affected employees are returned to their original positions and schedules, or may be subject to layoff.

The workforce reduction provisions in this section do not apply to employees in restricted positions. Workforce reduction includes layoff, reassignment, reduction in work hours, and/or involuntary demotion. Factors used in determining affected employees may include length of continuous employment at VCU, performance ratings, and disciplinary records.

An employee whose position is terminated is entitled to six months (26 weeks) notice, however in the event that an employee receives less than six months (26 weeks) notice that employee is entitled to VCU severance pay for the period that falls short of six months (26 weeks). During the notice period, VCU Human Resources provides assistance in finding comparable positions within the university, and affected employees may apply for and be granted priority interview rights for one year for positions for which they meet the minimum qualifications. Preferential hiring rights at other state agencies may be exercised. An employee whose position is terminated due to workforce reduction is eligible for up to twelve months of continued health coverage and life insurance under the same provisions as active employees. These benefits cease if re-employment occurs within the twelve months.

An employee may choose severance benefits under the Workforce Transition Act (WTA) effective immediately instead of the six months notice and priority interview rights described above, if eligible under the WTA. WTA severance benefits include 4-36 weeks of cash severance based on length of continuous service, and up to twelve months of continued employee health coverage and life insurance under the same conditions as active employees. WTA severance benefits cease upon re-employment with any state agency. Eligible employees who retire immediately may request that the value of WTA severance benefits be converted to enhanced retirement under the Virginia Retirement System instead of being used for the cash severance, health coverage, and life insurance.
